A EXPLAINED

Due to a Violent Gust of Wind.

Pilot Absolved from Blame by Expert Who Witnessed the Crash.

Fatality Attributed to Storm Which Took Buoyancy from Wings.

WASHINGTON, MAY 30 - Ar rmy investigating board, which ompleted an examination of the wrecked Curtiss Eagle Army air-plane, which crashed to earth near Indian Head, Md., Saturday night, carrying seven men to their death, held today that the tragedy was not the fault of the machine nor its pilot, Lieut, Stanley M. Ames. The investigation board comprised Capt. W. B. Ocker, Lieut. Paul T.

Capt. W. B. Ocker, Lieut. Paul T. Wilkins and Lieut. L. M. Wolf, all of Boiling Field, who will make a formal report to the War Department. Their report, it is understood, will set forth that the plane was not defective in any respect, that Lieut. Ames was in no way responsible for the fatality, and that the collapse of the giant ambulance plane must be attributed to the violent electrical storm, which struck with unusual sharpness.

Secretary of War Weeks, who has taken particular interest in the tragedy, tonight said that he believed the disaster to have been unavoidable.

"After the second circle the pilot dived sharply for a field very close to where I was standing. He evidently thought the ground too soft there and zoomed up to escape a little group of trees directly in his path. He cleared the trees and kept the plane on an even keel by magnificent maneuvering and then—it happened.

"Just as the trees were cleared and safety seemed to lay just ahead, the huge plane poised for a split second in the air, seemed to shudder for an instant like a mighty ship bucking a huge comber, and then plunged in a perfect vertical dive, directly into the earth.

SEES SMOKING MOTOR. "I was the first to arrive at the scene, although several farmers and townspeople came close behind. As I reached the plane three figures were draped grotesquely over the smoking motor. This led me to believe that there were only three occupants in the plane, as the others were buried in the wreckage and it was too dark for me to see them."

Congressmen Campbell of Kansas and Walsh of Massachusetts, who went to Langley Field Saturday in the ill-fated ship, but who returned home by boat, declared that they had not falled to make the return trip through fear of danger. Both men said they had been in the air a good part of the day, having observed bombing experiments in a Martin bomber after reaching Langley Field, and they found the air in the closed plane bad on the trip down.

Congressman Campbell stated that the plane had been efficiently piloted on the trip to Norfolk and that though the air was bumpy the pilot had handled the great machine competently.

had handled the great macnine competently.

Saturday's tragedy was the third largest in loss of life in peace-time aviation. It was eclipsed by the collapse of the giant Caproni at Rome, when fifteen were killed, and that of a dirigible in Chicago, when three fell to their death and several were fatally burned when the blazing debris crashed through the roof of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank.

and power development program, nation-wide in scope, will be unfolded at the forty-fourth annual convention of the National Electric Light Association to be held here eginning tomorrow and lasting until June 3.

Development plans will be dis-cussed which call for the expan-sion of the industry and the expendi-ture of millions of dollars for the purpose of extending the service of electrical energy to American in-electrical energy to American in-dustry.

Electrification of steam railroads, national water power development, plans for superpower development, which means the connecting of the electric resources of the nation into powerful distributing systems and scores of other subjects will occupy the attention of the delegates dur-ing the four days' session.

More than 3000, delegates and their wives are expected and they will include the leading men of the electrical industry from all parts of the country. General sessions will be held every morning and in the afternoon the convention will split up into sections at which phases of the industry's problems will be discussed.

Martin J. Insull of Chicago, president of the National Electric Light Association, will deliver the opening address. One of the most important speeches will be the address by James E. Davidson of Omaha, chairman of the public relations national section. Mr. Davidson will out-

Lincoln and Santa Paula Baseballers to Tangle in Pivot Game.

Lincoln High and Santa Paula will settle a hot basebail argument this afternoon on Jefferson High's diamond. The argument is in regard as to which is the better team, and incidentally, which nine will blay San Diego next week for the Southern California championship Both teams are as yet undefeated, and the basebail bugs are promised a first-class exhibition.

It is impossible to dope out the mix-up, as the feams have never met, and being in separate leagues, they have not played the same teams. Coach Frank Malette of the Railsplitters has a fast aggregation, built around his phenominal pitcher and heavy hitter, Al Fischer.

The industry faces the most serious cortage of photoplays in its history. It leeds, and will liberally pay for, 2,000 mod scenarios. Not mere ideas, not matchworks of incident and action, but connected, workable stories for the screen. It is because the studios cannot obtain sufficient good material that so many thousands of patrons are criticising so many of the pictures shown.

And it may be that you, who can tell a good from a bad picture, can help. "But," you say, "I am not a writer. I am only a housewife-or a salesman"- or whatever you are. C. Gardner Sullivan, who started life as a farmer boy, might have looked at it that way, too. But he didn't. He tried, and now his income is $2000 a week. He was not a "born" writer. But he discovered that he had creative imagination, a sense of dramatic values. The rest was a simple matter of training.

The questionnairs is our guide to the talent we seek. It was prepared by Prof. Malcolm MacLean, former instructor of short-story writing in Northwestern University, and Mr. H. H. Van Loan, the celebrated photoplaywright. It is a simple test which you may apply to yourself, to determine whether you have the essentials to success-and dramatic insight. Before undertaking to train applicants in the new art of photoplay writing, we measure their aptitude for the work through this questionnaire.

You are invited to apply our test to yourself
We will gladly send you the Palmer questionnaire upon re-quest. Answer, to the best of your ability, the questions in it, and we will tell you frankly what the record reveals to us. ord reveals to us.

The Paimer Photoplay Corporation cannot endow you nor any other person with creative imagination; it cannot impart dramatic insight. But if you have a natural inclination toward these essential elements of photoplay writing, it can be discovered through the questionnaire; and through the Course, and Service your talent can be trained in the technique of scenario writing. And it can be done by home study at low cost.

A number of children were playing in Siavin's yard, the Burkett boy having in his hands a .22-caliber rifle. In some manner the gun was discharged and Benny fell dead. It passed as an accident for several weeks, but the January grand jury took the case up and returned an indictment against Cecil Burkett charging murder in the first degree. State's Attorney Dilts, who presented the evidence to the grand jury, will prosecute the case. The State will demand the death penalty. Prosecutor Dilts claims to have evidence that the crime was committed in cold blood.

Only five of the six jurors constituting the grand jury, voted to indict the lad. One of the five since has changed his mind. Cecil Burkett is out under $10,000 bond, furnished by Ora citizens and is attending the common schools at Ora.

For years there has been developing in Washington a group of professional experts in the study of coats of arms, family history and lines of descent, to meet the demands of people in all parts of the country. Some of the applicants for information desire to trace their descent from those who were factors in the colonial history of America. Others wish to gasback across the water to prominent Old-world families. Some of the houses of noble blood in Europe sent their younger sons as settlers to America, while the older sons inherited the titles and estates. These family links may often be supplied by careful study of the old records that are to be found in the Congressional Library and other sources of information in the District of Columbia.

Many of those who seek this information from the experts at the capital wish to provide a foundation for membership in patriotic societies like the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames and Society of the Cincinnati.
Others merely want to preserve thu records of their particular families or to establish the right to coats of arms.

The War Department order creates a new branch of research which emphasizes the military history of the United States. Recognizing the importance and value of preserving the traditions of each unit in appropriate symbols the Army officers require each regiment to create its coat of arms or badge with the emblems of the United States as a basis and then any distinguishing features that can be incorporated. As an example, the regiment that distinguished itself at Chickamauga bears on its coat of arms the rock of Chickamauga with appropriate inscriptions. Other regiments have won recognition in France or other parts of the world and thereby have acquired the foundations for certain special insignia.

Many of the members of the famous regiments for which this work is being done have been impelled to revive their own coat of arms, derived from the old country, and so this family work, going on side by side with the Army designing has added to the volume of genealogical demands in Washington.

American democracy does not ex-

American democracy does not ex-clude from its interests a certain de-gree of that pride of birth that char-acterizes the Old World. FEELING OF PRIDE.

The foreign systems of hereditary titles, of course, are quite apart from the American idea of equal opportunity for all. Even in the republic of France the old titles still survive. In America, however, the plain "Mr." accompanies even the highest achievements of the leaders of the nation, with the exception of those who bear military titles won in the service. Nevertheless, there is evidence in the record offices of various sorts that the people of the United States are not immune to that feeling of family pride which induces large numbers of them to employ searchers and genealogical writers to work out their family tree.

Accurate pedigrees must be found in order that those of the present generation may "qualify as members of the patriotic organizations. Some are successful in their quest and others are disappointed. The task of hunting ancestors in public records, however, gives employment to a substantial number of persons who, in many instances are regularly employed and receive commissions for their work.

FACILITIES FURNISHED.

FACILITIES FUNISHED.

The national capital furnishes facilities for the Old World as well as the New World research, for in the Library of Congress there are copies, some of them musty with age, of the visitations of the various British countles, the parish records of births and marriages and the numerous genealogical works that have been prepared by English, German, French, Scotch, Irish or Welsh writers, based upon collections of facts which have developed contemporaneously with the related branch of heraldry.

While some persons who are preparing to obtain membership in the patriotic societies are able to trace their American lineage at home without going elsewhere, by a study of town, city and State records, this method frequently is made impossible by the travels of a single family from one State to another, and thence on for series of jumps especially in the days when newer sections of the country were being gradually opened to settlement.

One interesting fact which is frequently revealed in the study of American genealogy is that certain families, which possess the genius for building new States or communities were constantly on the frontier for successive generations. When civilization had caught up with one group the sons of the settlers would go forward, beyond the Mississippi, to the Pacific Coast or to the great Scuthwest.

Chronic Constipation.

This condition is usually brought on by neglect. Neglect to drink as much water as a healthy person requires, which is three pints each day. Neglect to take enough exercise to keep the body in a healthy condition. Neglect to establish a regular habit of having the bowsis move once each day, whether there is an inclination or not. It is obvious, that to cure chronic constipation, you must first correct your habits. Chamberlain's Tablets are excellent, but will not cure you permanently, when these neglects are persisted in. Tom Jackson is the only man we know who never talks about himself," said a friend of ours the other day. "He's been dead fifteen months."

Because we're like most other people, we buy newspaper space and talk about ourselves occasionally - and about the goods we sell. We get a lot of satisfaction out of it, but we've been wondering if it's a good idea. The trouble is that the other fellow tries to say nicer things about himself than we have said about ourself. Then we feel like "going him one better." A sort of "ring around the rosy."

The success of our business depends on what other people say about us. We've found that there's only one way we can make other people say nice things. That's by being a little more considerate than we think is necessary. By trying to see suits and shirts and hats from the other fellow's point of view-trying to give a little more in courtesy and kindness and clothes-value than a man expects to get.

We feel a good deal of satisfaction in selling Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes for that very reason. That idea of "giving a little more than is expected" is what has built Hart Schaffner & Marx into the biggest clothing business in the world today.

bills providing for the welfare of SACRAMENTO, May 80.—Five bills providing for the welfare of California's World War veterans were signed by Gov. Stephens here today, Memorial Day. Enactment of the measures, the Governor declared, placed California in the front rank of the States which have provided reward and rehabilitation for their former service men.

American Legion officials who were responsible or the introduction of the bills into the recent Législature have praised Gov. Stephens for his aid in obtaining passange of the measures. Both State and Legion officials declared the measures provided a very liberal program for former service men.

First of the bills. Senate bill No. 594, is considered the keystone of the scroup of provides for creation of a veterans welfare board, annead by the Governor, will consist of five members, four of whom must be exservice men.

MILLION APPROPRIATED.

The sum of $1,000,000 is appropriated from the State's general funds and from this, $980,000 will be used as a revolving fund for land settlement of service men and will be used as a revolving fund for land settlement of service men and ministration, fund. Senate bill. No. 524 provides for sale of lands by the State to veterns in amounts not to exceed $15,000 and to be paid for with interest in forty years and for the leaning of up to $3000 to each veteran for purchase of live stock and farm equipment, with twenty years to pay back the loan.

Under Assembly bill No. $22 a different method is used, as the board does not buy land, but it lists land that is for sale, and when an application of a veteran for aid in purchasing a home or farm has been approved by the welfare board, the board will enter into a contract with the veteran for the purchase of the property and its sale to the veteran on payment of 10 per cent of the purchase price of a farm and 5 per cent of the purchase price of a farm and 5 per cent of the purchase price of a home or homesite. The purchaser is allowed forty years to pay the balance, with interest at 5 per cent. This bill was among those signed by the Governor.

EDUCATIONAL COUNSEL.

EDUCATIONAL COUNSEL.

Senate bill No. 593, another signed, provides extension of educational counsel to veterans and assistance in vocational training, with allowances to those taking vocational training of not to exceed $40 a month. Administration of the provisions of this law will be under the control of the welfare board.

Gov. Stephens said he considered No. 593 one of the most important measures for the reconstruction and rehabilitation of disabled veterans as it will enable them to learn vocations that will make them self-supporting and return them to the ranks of industry.

Under Senate bill No. 26, another Under Senate bill No. 25, another signed, service men are given the same proferential rating in all State civil service tests now accorded Civil War veterans. This measure provides that where the marks of candidates in any civil service examination are equal, the ex-service man shall be given the preference. men shall be given the preference.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—In spite general opposition from organized or to any changes in the Seaman's Act, the House Committee on Mer-

Act, the House Committee on Merchant Marine expects to report out the Scott bill this week, lessening some of the restrictions applying to vessels on the Great Lakes.

The subcommittee will meet tomorrow to revise the bill as introduced originally by Representative-Scott of Michigan. The subcommittee will report to the full committee on Thursday and action on the bill may be taken at that time. OPPOSITION EXPECTED.

The Democrats on the committee are expected to line up against the bill. They contend as do representatives of organized labor, that any amendments relieving ship operators of present requirements tend to increase the hazards of water transportation.

to increase the hazards of water transportation.

The bill as originally introduced provided that where the entire run of a lake vessel is less than sixteen hours, two watches may be maintained, instead of three, and that where the run is less than eight hours one watch is sufficient. It provides also that certificated lifeboat men may be used instead of able seamen on the Great Lakes. Another provision is an extension of the length of the summer season. The season would run from May 1 to October 15 usder the terms of the bill, instead of from May 15 to September 15, as at present. Enactment of legislation along these lines, applying especially to the Great Lakes, is imperative, according to the shipowners on the lakes, if the passenger and packet freight business is not to be completely destroyed because of inability to make a profit under present restrictions of the Seamen's Act.

Act.
Unofficial information received today by the Department of Labor was that the agreement between the Shipping Board and the marine engineers had been ratified in the referendum held by the local unions.
It was indicated at the department that there was every probability that the American Shipowners' Association would ratify the agreement.
The terms include a 15 per cent reduction in wages.

NEW YORK, May 30.—The Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, at a mass meeting today, named a committee of six to go to Washington to file with national President Brown a protest against his signing any agreement which would end the nation-wide marine strike on the terms proposed by Secretary of Labor Davis. The men reiterated their demand for renewal of last year's agreement with no wage cut.

NEW ORLEANS, May 30.—Striking marine engineers of New Orleans voted yesterday to accept the compromise proposal of Secretary of Labor Davis and return to work, it was announced by union officials to-day. The vote was 178 to 51.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Plans to offer the surplus government owned merchant marine tonnage to foreign buyers have been made by the Shipping Board subject to approval of the new board. President Harding is expected to name tomorrow. It was explained tonight difficulties encountered in disposing of the smaller vessels and the coal burners in the American markets have led the present board to clear the way for their sale abroad.

Tentative plans for tearing down the government's merchant feet through sale overseas, officials said, contemplated disposal of the wooden ships, the slower moving type of vessels of 5000 and 6000 deadweight tons and less, and larger coal burning craft, including some of the former German vessels.

MANY DECISIONS.

MANY DECISIONS

MANY DECISIONS.

Awaiting the new board are many important decisions. Among these, it was said, is whether the government is to attempt to sell its merchant fleet to private owners as quickly as possible or to operate the ships until they can be sold gradually.

Other problems are the disposition of the giant former German liner Leviathan, now tied up in New York, ratification of the working agreements between the Hamburg-American line and the Ship and Commerce corporation of New York and the North German Lloyd and the United States Mail Steamship Company and the question of the establishment of preferential railroad rates for commodities moving overland to and from American vessels.

The question of the sale of intoxicants on American passenger liners also is expected to be brought before the new board.

PEKING, May 30.—Gen. Komura, chief of staff of the Japanese forces in Vladivostok, has officially informed Chairman Popoff of the Russo-Japanese conciliatory committee that within a month the Japanese troops will make an expedition through various regions of the maritime provinces.

These regions are enumerated as Colon, from Nikolsk, Usursk to Kamen. Also along the western bank of Hanka Lake and along both sides of the Ussuri Rallway, between Sivianghno and Iman. What You Will See in Front of the Grand Stand Without Extra Charge

Lodi, and John F. Harris, who was to be taken to the reform school at Ione for a term of four years for burglary, escaped from the County Jall about 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning by prying off two bars of a small window to their cell on the ground floor.

Posses in automobiles are making a county-wide search for the men. There was another attempt of six prisoners to break Jall at 10:30 o'clock. Attracted by the sound of an iron bar dropping on the ground floor. Chief Jaller George W. Shepherd investigated and found six men in one cell trying to pry off the bars of a window leading to the street. The prisoners were corraled and put

We recommend these bonds for investment for the following reasons:

1. They will constitute a Closed First Mortgage on over 16,350 acres of land in the fertile Salt River Valley of Arizona, 9 cotton gins, and an 8-press cotton oil mill, the appraised value of which is $2,650,000, or over 2½ times the amount of this issue. With improvements, equipment, supplies and cash, the Company will have on completion of this financing, total assets of over $3,450,000, nearly 3½ times the amount of this issue.

A thoroughly efficient and comprehensive system of irrigation is owned by and furnishes the Company with an abundance of water for all purposes. In the opinion of the Company's engineers, Messra. Quinton, Code and Hill, drainage problems will not be en-

Ten-Year 7% Gold Notes, Now Secured by Closed First Mortgage and Tax Exempt in California These Gold Notes are the only funded debt of a corporation whose assets are nearly sixty million dollars. This issue of $10,000,000 is secured by a First Closed Mortgage on all the property of the Company.

This corporation has made annual earnings during the 4½-year period ending with 1920, of 4.4 times the interest requirements of these notes, while the earnings of the nine months' period ending March 31, 1921, were at the annual rate of over 8 times these requirements. This income is not only from the company's wells in California and Wyoming, which are producing 15,000 barrels of oil per day, but from its refinery, with a daily capacity of 30,000 barrels, its 250 miles of main pipe line, its four tank ships, with a total capacity of 300,000 barrels, and its complete or ganization in Mexico, with production, pipe line, refinery, storage and distri-bution facilities.

The property equity of the com-pany over this issue, represented by present market value of the outstand-ing stock, is in excess of $35,500,000. A sinking fund provides for the re-tirement of $500,000 of these notes by lot each year at 105 and accrued in-terest.

Y.W.C.A. TO EXTEND DRIVE ANOTHER WEEK.

THIRTY THOUSAND DOLLARS OF NECESSARY FUND ALREADY PLEDGED.

With close to $30,000 subscribed toward the $100,000 goal, the Y.W.C.A. announces that the campaign will be extended for another week, or until the fund necessary for guaranteeing the maintenance of the institution and providing for the institution and providing for the plunge and gymnasium has been raised.

Mrs. Nichols Milbank, president of the association, at the noon-day meeting Saturday made known the plan for the campaign's extension, which she explained is largely accountable to the three days of rain and the holiday week-end.

Noon-day meetings for daily reports will be eliminated this week, there being but one luncheon session planned and that for Wednesday at the campaign headquarters in the Blue Triangle Clubrooms, 631 South Spring street. Friday evening there wil be a big assembly of all captains and team-workers, this including the business girls' teams.

RAISING COTTON NOW ON TREES.

Much Progress Being Made in Mexico With Experiments.

Plants Produce Long Staple Yield Heavily.

Result of Many Years Experiments is Promising.

GUADALAJARA (Mex.) May 30.—
Remarkable progress has been made in some districts of the Pacific Coast region of Mexico in growing caravonica cotton, according to reports received here. This species of cotton is grown on trees and is the outcome of a long series of experiments which have been conducted in the more tropical parts of Mexico, Australia and other countries for many years past.

years past.

It is stated that the growing of this cotton on a large commercial scale in Mexico will be attempted by a number of planters, now that the revolutionary and banditry period apparently is over. Even during the several years that these disturbances were going on the production of caravonica cotton on a limited scale was carried on.

PLANT IS HYBRID.

PLANT IS HYBRID.

It was more than fitteen years ago that the first caravonica cotton was produced by the crossing of a fine long-stapled Mexican cotton with a coarse long-stapled Peruvian cotton. This hybridization was carried out in the state of Queensland, Australia, some twenty years ago by an Italian scientist, Dr. David Thomatis, and since then seeds from the resulting plants have been tried in all parts of the world. It is being experimented with in Mexico, Australia, India, Egypt, French New Caledonia and the Congo.

Experiments in upper Mexico and the United States did not prove altogether successful, but in Southern Mexico the plant grows well. It has been demonstrated that the plant grows best in a hot climate, with not too much rainfall. The seed was introduced into Mexico in June, 1903, by Prof. Pehr Olsen-Seffer, who planted them at La Zacualpa bottanical station on the Pacific Coast, and who, finding that climate suitable, afterward planted 185 acres. It is estimated that the land especially adapted to this plant in Mexico is some 2,000,000 acres on the southwestern coast, lying between Manzanillo on the north and the Guatemalan border on the south. This land is now worth $5 to $10 gold an acre.

land is now worth $5 to $10 gold an acre.

Caravonica cotton has black seed, similar to that of Egyptian cotton, and the seed comes out clean and floesless from the gin. Being long staple, only the roller gin is suitable for handling it. There are two varieties of the caravonica cotton, one known as wool caravonica, which is adapted for mixing with wool, and the other, which is more valuable, known as silk caravonica, which has a long silky fiber of great strength, that can be mixed without detection with some qualities of silk, it is stated.

with some qualities of slik, it is stated.

The advantages claimed for caravenica cotton are its large production per acre, its large yield of lint, and the fact that it is a perennial. The caravonica tree, or rather, bush, will grow to twenty feet or more in height, but it is usually trimmed every year. It will begin to bear at seven to eight months after sowing and will yield profitably without replanting for five to eight years. In starting a plantation the land has to be very carefully prepared, but after that it needs little cultivation beyond weeding under the trees.

YIELD IS HEAVY.

Trees are planted in rows, seven feet apart each way, which gives about 900 trees to the acre. With 300 to 500 bolls, each tree bears from four to seven pounds of seed cotton, or about one and one-third to two and one-third pounds of clean lint. Under favorable circumstances caravonica cotton in Mexico has yielded 2355 pounds of seed cotton and from this have been obtained 1200 pounds of clean lint per acre. The yield of lint in this cotton is remarkable, varying from 48 to 62 per cent.

remarkable, varying from 48 to 62 per cent.

The cotton is gathered from January to May. Picking in the first years is performed by pulling down the branches, but when the tree is full grown it has to be done from stepladders. The bolls on large trees run about fifty to a pound, and this large size of bolls diminishes the difficulty of picking from such high bushes.

This tree cotton has been found to be very healthy and highly resistant to pests of all kinds. In experi-mental lots of silk caravonica that have been shipped to Liverpool a slightly higher price than that paid for Sea Island has been obtained.

James A. Murray, Montana millionaire.

In asking that letters of administration be given here, the petition alleged that James A. Murray, who died May 11 at his home in Monterey, Cal., was a clitizen of Montana, and that the bulk of his estate, valued at between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000, is in Montana.

The action ignores the will filed in Monterey county, California, which purports to dispose of all of Murray's property.

The petition values the property in Montana at $5,525,000.

"We are not ready for public

"We are not ready for public ownership yet, but economic forces are driving us that way," he said. "But its advent will be hastened by regulation that puts rates either too high or too low. Too high rates arouse public indignation and a demand for public ownership; too low rates throw the utilities on financial rocks and leave public ownership its possible to continue furnishing gas, electricity or water. This country is being driven toward public ownership fast enough as it is.

"Our political methods are not yet efficient for the State to administer public utilities, although some cities have been able to do it. The principal problem that lies before California is systematization of its political machinery."

Commissioner Rowell said the utilities in greatest need of attention were the transportation companies. "The street car lines were all broke, and so are most of the interurban lines, while the railroads say they are broke," he explained.

Shortest Crop in Last Twenty five Years, Declared.

Shortage Due to Successful Reduction Scheme.

Acreage Has Been Cut 30.73 Per Cent.

IST A. P. MOST WIRE. I NEW YORK, May 36.—The coun-try faces the shortest cotton crop in the last quarter of a century, J. B. Wanamaker of Saint Mathews, S. C., president of the American Cotton As-sociation, today told the National Consultation Conference of Cotton Growers.

This shortage was largely due, he said, to the successful cotton acreage reduction campaign of the association in its efforts to create a market and prevent further deflation in and prevent further deflation in prices. He quoted statistics to show the acreage had been reduced 38.72 per cent.

Abolition of cotton exchanges if they cannot be regulated adequately by law was advocated by Senator J. T. Hefin of Alabama, in an address today before the national consultation of the American cotton growers, manufacturers and affiliated interests.

Consideration is being given a law concerning cotton futures, he asserted, but he expressed doubt as to the possibility of framing a measure that the exchanges could not find a way to evade.

"If the cotton exchanges cannot be regulated," he declared, "I am in favor of killing them. I say give them another chance. However, we don't have to have exchanges to sell cotton.

"The price of cotton will go up again. We will survive it. Let us go back and preach to our people never to go back to pre-war prices. Cotton cannot be produced at 12 or 14 cents, a pound under present conditions."

Senator Hefin favored amending the Federal Reseave law so the Federal Reserve Board would be compelled to recognize staple cotton as a basis for credit. Ways and means of rehabilitating the octton industry and putting it on a pre-war basis were discussed at the opening session today.

FACE SHORT CROP.

FACE SHORT CROP.

FACE SHORT CROP.

Leading cotton growers and government officials warned that the country faced the shortest cotton crop in the last twenty-five years, and that unless immediate steps were taken to create a market and restore the staple to a profitable price a greater shortage would result in the next few years.

Figures presented by speakers showed that the reduction in cotton acreage this year ranged from 30 to 35 per cent, due to the acreage of the cotton acreage this year ranged from 30 to 35 per cent, due to the acreage of the boll weevel and unfavorable weather.

The government recognizes the industry faces a critical situation, President Harding declared in a telephone message to the conference, and he assured the cotton growers the administration desired to co-operate with those seeking to improve conditions.

United effort by government and business is necessary if the cotton industry is to regain its feet, declared J. S. Wannamaker of St. Matthews, S. C., president of the American Cotton Association. Artificial deflation in values must be overcome, he said. Senator Rangdell of Louislana, a cotton planter, estimated cotton producers had lost approximately $2,000,000,000 in 1920, due to adverse market conditions.

Richardson were married last week at Santa Ana.

Sheriff Byers said Richardson drew an $1500 check on a Chicago bank and deposited it in the People's State Bank of Chula Vista. Then, it is charged, he drew about $500 from the Merchants' National Bank and $350 from the San Diego Savings Bank on the strength of the deposit at Chula Vista. The check deposite at Chula Vista is declared to have proved worthless. In addition, Richardson is charged with having obtained an automobile by giving a worthless check. The overwhelming opposition to the proposed bond issue of $12,250.000 to build a new thirty-mile outfall sewer to the sea has again focused the attention of the voters on ducts over the railroad tracks

Also his new paying specification on awaiting approval, the adoption of which is being urged by Mayor Snyder.

In addition to the political activities of the City Engineer's office contractors point out that the accessive inspection charges and requirements under the Griffin administration have resulted in many contractors declining to bid on city-inspected paying, sidewalk and similar contracts, or in cases where they have submitted bids their offers have been excessively high to cover delays caused by the army of faulting inspection charges which are borne by the city Engineer. These inspection charges which are borne by the contractor in some cases have exceeded the cost of the labor and material and engineering work of the job itself, to the extent of being 230 per cent of the actual cost of the labor and material and engineering work of the job itself, to the extent of being 230 per cent of the actual cost of the work.

As showing the wasteful extravagant methods of the Griffin administration, the City Engineer for an immediate, $18,000 special election, the City Engineer for a sewer. The church's total investment at that place, for improvements, is not greater than $25.000, it is reported, and such revalties as may be obtained, if oil is found on the land. Will be available for development of Seaview Assembly, Mr. Scott says. The Methodists of the Pacific Coast are not planning facilities for themselves alone, according to Mr. Scott, but are expecting to shape their assembly in such a way that it will appeal to all who care for such ideals as it will afford. The impression of Rev. Scott, who has visited all the similar institutions, is that thousands of eastern families desirous of living in an ideal Christian atmosphere and enjoying a mild climate will ultimately build homes at Seaview.

In many respects the location just purchased by the Methodists is a most desirable piece of property for the purpose. It begins at the old Long Wharf, half a mile north of the Santa Monica city limits, and extends a half mile up the coast. From there it runs over a level plateau for a mile and a quarter, and then it goes for three-quarters of a mile over low hills to its northern lists who want all of their husbands' love and attention, and when they find that they have to share them with other ladies, their thoughts turn towards the divorce court. But divorce isn't often the cure-all for matrimonial ills that women think it is going to be. So often it is jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. So often it gives a woman freedom, and brings on her poverty, and homelessness, and loneliness, so that her last estate is worse than her first.

The modern woman does not want to be told to he patient and sit tight on her job as a wife, when husband does not measure up to her standards. Nevertheless, it is good advice nine times out of ten, where the wandering husband is concerned. For philandering husbands are like Mary's little lamb, let them alone and they will come home. And in the meantime the woman has her home, her income and her position in society, which are no mean consolations.

Competition is now very keen between American producers and what would be more beneficial to us "common people," as well as the American producers is a protective tariff that would put European production on a par with American.

It was a long time before the war that we saw "first-class" pictures for 15 cents, and those pictures would be "fourth raters" compared to the present output.

May 31, 1921.

A few years ago when the "New West Seventh Street Shopping District" was developed, it was an extension of retail business almost wholly along the one street. Since then, by the construction of large office buildings, hotels, theaters and stores upon the parallel and interesting. the corner of Seventh and Grand has become the center of an important and very busy part of Los Angeles.

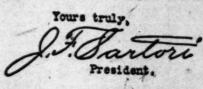

Following its policy of extending its service through branches, in the business areas, the Security Bank last December opened the SEVENTH STREET BRANCH at the northwest corner of Grand Avenue. The location of this Branch toward the south and west end of the business area makes it unmecessary for patrons to cross the congested district. It is nevertheless convenient to stores, theaters, restaurants and office build-

The personnel of the Branch, headed by a Vice President of the Bank, was selected from the Main Bank, with a view to securing experience and special banking ability.

The Safe Deposit Department, reached by elevator from the street or from the bank, includes a large vanit with safes of all sizes, and all the appurtenances which are implied with Security Safe Deposit service -- comfortable waiting rooms, private offices for customers, writing rooms, and special accommodations for women customers.

The Seventh Street Branch is a complete bank, identi-fied with its neighborhood, and affording all the lines of service and credit accommodation which may be had at the Main Bank.

OVEN BAKED BEANS with Tomato Sauce

Mother may be young or Mother may be old-but three times a day, 365 days a year, the question of "What to eat" faces her with regularity.

Mother's meals are always the very best meals in the world. But for fifty years, skilled experts in the spotless Heinz kitchens have been making good things to eat—as pure and wholesome as the good things made in Mother's spotless kitchen at home.

Heinz Baked Beans are baked the way Mother bakes them-in real ovens. The real bean flavor preserved by this method blends deliciously with the distinctive tang of Heinz famous Tomato Sauce and the result is complete goodness.

A thousand and ninety-five meals a year! My! that means a lot of work for Mother! You'll give her many a restful hour by eating Heinz Baked Beans. But first of all, you will like the beans-like them so well that you will never tire of them. Eat them often!

But that is hardly a knock on the system. It might not be a bad thing for the country to have a Cabinet measuring up to the Hughes and Hoover standard.

R EPORT PROGRESS.

All the reviews and researches recorded in the leading financial and trade publications still designate the Los Angeles district as the brightest spot on the country's map so far as business is concerned. General trade is better and prices are more eral trade is better and prices are more equitably adjusted here than in any other section of America. There is less friction is industry, less idleness and more general prosperity here. Los Angeles is also showing the greatest and most substantial growth in new industries of any community in the country. For this the dominance of the open-shop principle is chiefly responsible. A man doesn't have to belong to a union or pay iribute to a walking delegate in order to get a job and a good workman is sure of getting the reward for his skill and labor. Here also the home and family take the place of the union.

in New York, Chicago or most large instrial cities, the chance for a workman ting his own house is remote. He is ut as likely to own the City Hall or the oklyn bridge as his own home. But in Angeles, if he has saved a few hundred offiars and is reasonably sure of a job, he loss not healtate to assume the responsibility of his own home and forthwith proceeds to fix it up to his own liking. And ext to a home in the New Jerusalem a some in Los Angeles is to be desired. To be frank about it there are many who pre-fer the latter. At any price Los Angeles must maintain her industrial freedom. The open shop and equality of opportunity must prevail—and home-owning must still be made easy. The peace and prosperity of the community depend upon the preserva-tion of these conditions. Los Angeles does not wish to grow fast so much as to grow clean and wholesome. It is not numbers we wish so much as quality of citizenship.

POLAND'S SIDE Poland has come in for considerable discism for disturbing the peace of Eu-pe at a time when the Allies are bending every effort toward quieting things down. The Times has expressed its opinion of her actions, candidly as usual, and has nothing to withdraw. At the same time, it must be conceded that Poland's government has attempted to act squarely; unfortunately it has been unable to control the passionate people. A presentation of Poland's case has recently been made in this country. It is interesting to examine it. The Poles say the Allies gave them the worst of it in their disputes with the Czechs and the Ukrainians in 1919. Then, they declare, they were duped over Danzig, the port which means so much to them. In their bouts with Russia they were disappointed with the action of the Allies. The Upper Silesia trouble followed. At Warsaw it is maintained that they have been dealt with unfairly. According to their government ns, candidly as usual, and has nothing maintained that they have been dealt with unfairly. According to their government "the Big Four" once practically promised to give it to Poland outright. The program was changed and an immediate plebiscite was decided on. Two years passed and nothing was done. Finally, when the plebiscite was taken, absentee German voters were allowed to come in in droves and have a say in the case. Despite all this and not-withstanding provocative action by Germans, the election went off quietly. Poland asserts that it received a majority of the votes in 662 out of 888 communes lying to votes in 662 out of 888 communes lying to Treaty of Versailles provides that the re-sult is to be determined by that vote. It is insisted on behalf of the government that it has done all it could do to prevent the uprising in Upper Silesia. The obylous snewer is, of course, that it has not done

OUT OF THEIR OWN MOUTHS. Perhaps the only serious objection which has been made to the facts which have been laid before the American people regarding conditions in Russia under the Reds has been that investigators have been too hasty to generalize from hasty observa-tions or have been too prejudiced against the Bolshevists to pass a reliable judgment on them. Swartz, recently in this city, is particularly Swartz, recently in this city, is particularly interesting.

Mr. Swartz says at the outset that he was born in Russia, lived there for thirty-five years, that he knows the language and the people well, that he fought for Russia and that he was a delegate from the Socialist party of the United States to the recent congress of radicals in Moscow. He, if anyone, should be able to speak with authority and if there is any merit in the Russian system he, as a Socialist, would be expected to see it and to blazon it to the world.

What, then, is the opinion of this re-to see it and to blazon it to the world.

What, then, is the opinion of this redeemed Socialist, for he has washed his hands of Socialism, regarding this gigantic experiment in Communism? He sums it up in three words: "It is hell!"

The soviets killed his wife, imprisoned him and broke his health, took away all that he had and then threw him out as too far spent to warrant further torture.

cialists in this country! His only crime was that he insisted on looking closely at the common people to see what they really thought about this experiment which had been the dream of radicals for centuries. He was getting the facts about Bolshevism, and Bolshevism cannot afford to let the facts be known. This religion of class raie which has been held up as the light of the world cannot, it seems, stand the light at what conditions did he find? "No coal, no food, no gold, no hope." This Utopia insists on putting bilakers on all who come to gaze on it; but, when once seen, it is like a house swept bare, a habitation echoing the groans of the dying and the walls of those who are in the shadow of death. The streets of the cities have become shambles, he says. How odd that sounds as a description of the earthly paradise!

And here is the daintiest morsel of all for Communists: Two soldiers stand over every worker to maintain his production AND TO KEEP HIM PROM KEEPING Karl Marx! Echoes from a thousand scap boxes! What has become of that doctrine that under Communism all men will work at their highest capacity for the common good and that those who work create and have the primary claim to the wealth of the world?

And that stirring sentence from the Com-munist Manifesto: "Workers of the world, unite; you have nothing to lose but your chains!" How does this ideal work out in that land in which the organised proletarist has had an untrammeled opportunity to bring down somewhat of heaven to earth?

"All of the intelligent workers of Russia," he says, "are trying to make their way to America and the rest have sunk down in despair under their chains. Neither life nor property is secure there. The only thing that is constant is misery."

Heaven turned to hell! The streets which Heaven turned to hell: The streets which were supposed to be paved with gold and given over to the delights of the people are turned into shambles and run with blood! Poverty, want, militarism, despair on every hand! And above it all, in that land of the complete experiment in class rule, the clank of chains and the groans of the dying!

OOKING BACKWARD.

Many among us who yesterday paid honors to the memory of our heroic dead who perished in the service of their counwho perished in the service of their country were unaware that in observing a national Memorial Day we have reconstituted one of the oldest institutions of free peoples. Twenty-three centuries ago the citiples. Twenty-three centuries ago the citizens of the republic of Athens assembled once a year to renew their pledges of a determination to guard with their lives the independent sovereignty of their little state, smaller in area and population than Los Angeles county, in saluting with the highest honors that the state could bestow the tombs of these who had fallen in the wars for Athenian liberty.

Back there in the dawn of our civilization, not yet arrived at its senith, peoples recognised that there was a distinction between those who fell in wars of conquest under the banners of a despet and the men who made a voluntary sacrifice of their lives on the altar of human liberty. Patriotism and love of freedom are two of the oldest manifestations of the human intelligence. There is not an instance in history in which an enlightemed people has been content to remain in a condition of political serfdom, has submitted without violest protest to the dictatorship of a minority. There are truths that, once uttered, can never thereafter be suppressed, emotions that, once awakened, can neither be stifled nor juilled back to unconsciousness. Nations may pass, peoples consciousness. Nations may pass, peoples may be destroyed, but truth lives.

Thucydides has preserved for us some tragments of a memorial day address delivered by Pericles to the Athenians about the year 431 B.C. Like certain things not now to be mentioned, it has improved with age; for it discloses that the nature of the institutions of free government and the necessity of defending them were as famil-iar to the citizens of Athens in the days when Japan alone of the five world powers of the present enjoyed a national existence as to the citizen of Los Angeles in the twen tieth century. In its reference to the life and customs of the people, to their aspirations, their devotion to the national cause and their civic and social duties it reads as though it might have been delivered yesterday in Los Angeles. After the customary perora-tion Pericles said:

tion Pericles said:

The constitution that governs us has nothing to envy in those of other peoples. It serves them for a model and imitates them not. It has received the name of democracy because its end is the utility of the greatest number and not that of a minority. For private affairs all are equal before the law; consideration is accorded only to those who are distinguished by some talent. It is personal merit much more than social distinctions which clears the way to public honors.

Free in our political life we scrutinize not with a suspicious curiosity the private conduct of our citizens. We blame them not for searching some blame them not for searching some pleasure; we have not for them those intolerant looks that wound it they do not strike. Notwithstanding that tolerance in the commerce of life we know how to respect that which touches the public order. We give unquestioned submission to established authority, al-so to the laws; most of all to those which have for their object the protec-tion of the feeble and those which, al-though unwritten, fall not to attract to those who transgress them universal blame.

those who transgress them universal blame.

We excel in conciliating our taste for elegance with simplicity, culture of the mind with energy. We make use of our wealth not to shine, but to act. Among us it is not a shame to avow one's poverty; the shameful thing is to do nothing to go out of it. One sees here the same men care for their private interests and for those of the state, people occupied with other work who understand sufficiently political questions. We regard the citizen who is a stranger to public affairs not as a lover of repose, but as a useless individual. We know and discover for ourselves and judge wisely what is the duty of the state. We do not believe that speech is injurious to action; that which appears to us injurious is not to enlighten one's self by discussion. Before acting we know admirably to ally the calm of reflection with the temerity of audacity.

Such to the model of Athenian citizen-ship sketched by Pericles twenty-three centuries ago. As questionnaires are the rage just now, we present it as a fair sample of a test by which the citizen of Los Angeles might determine whether he could have qualified for citizenship in Athens, to con-sider whether, in all the years of progress that have intervened, we have taken a sin-gle step forward in the science of government, have discovered a single new truth concerning the relations of the citizen with the community and the state.

If Pericles had been in Loe Angeles yesterday, dropped into the midst of the tumult and confusion of twentieth-century life, providing the police had been able to rescue him from beneath the wheels of automobiles with his vocal and respiratory or-gans intact, he might well have said: "Your generation has produced scientists before babes, physicians before whom ours were the veriest charistans; but what have your statesmen and philosophers been doing all hese years and why has the race of sculp-

There are apparently three barriers that our boasted higher intelligence has not been able to scale: we have not improved on the congration of the steak that the first say age cooked on a flat stone over a pile of faggots; we can add nothing to the model of the citizen of Pericles and cannot even approach the conception and execution of the Athene Parthenos of his compatriot and sociate, Phidias.

STANDARDIZED SKIRTS.

After viewing the skirt parades in Broad street the clergymen representing afteen different religious denominations put fifteen different religious denominations put their heads together in Philadelphia and de-signed a costume which they recommend to all young women as chemically pure. A photographic preview was given in The Times of Monday and the garment is now on exhibition in the City of Brotherly Love. The preachers wish to standardize the apparel of our angels along lines of modesty and simplicity.

The garment they have evolved is of the blouse order so far as the waist is concerned. It is made loosely of soft, but non-disphanous material. It doesn't cling anywhere and not a line of the feminine figure is revealed. The skirt comes within seven inches of the ground and the waist is cut not more than three inches below the throat. It is quite possible for a girl to look graceful and beautiful in this dress. She is quite certain to look comfortable and respectable. But she will hardly look what our French friends call chic. That is she won't look like chicken—or even a wren.

Hollywood and Gotham girls who wish to have their raiment designed by a commis-sion of Philadelphia preachers will kindly tee is recommended for international con umption. They would have it adopted by the world and it might become an annex to the League of Nations. The costume is just as sultable for the Queen of Dahomey as it is for Mazie Fields, the stenographerif they could only get them to wear it. Why not try to enforce it by law? We regulate our skirts. The ministers have designed something that goes mighty well with prohibition. Why not utilize the machinery of authority to clothe our women in decorous fashion? Likewise, we should send our missionaries abroad in this sim ple, standardized raiment to carry the gos pel of same apparel along with the living

GANDHI AND READING.
Two of the outstanding personalities of the British Empire are about to clash question of whether any empire can long maintain itself in the present state of world opinion. The contest is not to be waged in London or even in Europe, for the fate of empires is decided in distant climes, though recoils in such a fray are felt throughout the entire structure immedi-

The principals in this struggle are Lord Reading, head of the British government in India, and Gandhi, leader of the widespread swaraj-sabha (self-government) movement in that land. Both received their training in the best English universities, both are able lawyers, both have vast powers of speech, both are orientals. There the similarity ends.

Reading worships and uses like a master an organized system of law and industry. He has the Jewish devotion to the established order—so long as it is fair toward the Jew. He has practically no illusions and always proceeds with the highest pos-sible mobilization of material forces.

Gandhi, by contrast, is a genuine oriental, a mystic, and is not afraid to use his tal, a mystic, and is not arraid to use and fatal gift of eloquence to stir up all classes in India. As against the materialism of Reading, he seeks to bring into play the religious fervor of the most fanatical race on the earth. He is preaching a doctrine which has always sounded strange to the

He is calling upon his people to do thing which, if widely indulged in, wou quickly overthrow the existing regime. Do not use British courts, goods, schools or words, he says, and do not enlist in the British army. England's rule rests on the native soldiery. British schools are the agencies through which it is sought to foster loyalty to the empire. Finally, under the present system, British courts and trade channels must be utilized by the natives.

The idea of self-determinism, let loose during the war, bit into the mind of ladia he asks, should 320,000,000 people be held down by 100,000? As far as he is concerned there is only one thing which the British can give to India and it is the very thing which England cannot afford to grant-in dependence. He cares for no sops, parila-mentary, literary or otherwise. He insists upon India for the Indians, echoing that nounting demand of Asia for the Asiatics

Thus the two leaders move into position: Reading fortified by his oriental instinct and backed by the strongest empire in the modern world; Gandhi, schooled in the west, ready to hurl the suppressed longings and the fanaticism of almost a fifth of the earth's population against a government which contemptuously holds that fifth in ion with barely 200,000 troops, most ly Indians.

Record Hose Mileage. Girls! What mileage does your hose yield in the waxed floors of your favorite Fifteen miles on one pair of ordinary silk hose is the record established by Mrs. Laura Phelan, former instructor in dancing for the recreation commission.

She has figured it all out—how many steps she takes during an ordinary dance and the length of each step. The average working girl who visits a public dance an evening or two a week dances three miles on each such occasion, Mrs. Phelan says. Figured on that basis, a girl can attend five dances with one pair of stockings.

If a dancer can get fifteen miles out of a pair of stockings, the average woman should be able to walk forty-five miles be-fore they are worn out. Mrs Phelan be-lieves.—[Detroit Times. HE-MASONS. SHE-MASONS.

I am sure women don't really want hold, Free Masonry—that arch-male secret, which, like their trousers, lends them so much needed distinct tion. Of course, there have been dreadful stories of curious wives who could not resist a little detec tive activity, and we have all heard the fable of the solitary dame who ecame a Free Mason because she had successfully hidden herself at one of their secret conclaves and knew too much.

Most women, however, have been aniably resigned to this little bit of masculine exclusiveness.

But now comes a highly interesting Masonic item from England to the effect that "The grand lodge of Free Masons in England has refused to sanction the decision of some subordinate lodges to admit women to their membership."

It appears that no less than five of these subordinate lodges had actually resolved to admit women. And in England, of all places, where masculinity is so arrogantly masculine and any of all places, where mas-culinity is so arrogantly masculine and women had to be so very un-pleasant before they could even get the men to consider giving them the vote—and then they only conceded it to women over thirty years of age—a peculiarly subtle bit of tom-catti-ness.

—a peculiarly subtle bit of tom-cattiness.

The fact that the grand lodge indignantly turned down the gallant intentions of the subordinate lodges is of no moment. The fact that there were five subordinate lodges to be indignantly subbed for such gallantry is the real epoch-making news. It is as revolutionary as democracy was to despotic monarchy, as amasing as discovering the circulation of the blood, and quite as confusing as the Einstein theory.

For masculine Free Masonry was one of those institutions that we had come to believe was immutable as far as the female of the species was concerned. Time was when we marveled and were not at all sure that it was good for them, but we had pretty well decided to leave it alone and not begrudge the gentlemen their satisfaction.

So it is a bit sensational to learn that uncoerced, several hundred con-

So it is a bit sensational to learn that, uncoerced, several hundred conservative Englishmen have actually voted to let down the bars. And, mark you, not when we were modestly submissive, not when we respectfully knew our place, not when we were on that precious pedestal, but now, now, in our era of votes, short skirts, community property laws and economic independence—all those things, you understand that have denuded us of charm, denatured us, marred us, as they so loudly hint, for masculine admiration.

Volia, sisters, what, what are we to think? What is this precious Free Masonry to which so many men Volla, sisters, what, what are we to think? What is this precious Free Masonry to which so many men now consider we have become eligible—and why?

Discussing the palpitating subject with a more or less conscientious Mason, he appeared peculiarly shocked and remarked. But the initiation ceremony alone would precide any such thing." Good gracious! What... why..... how....? It boggles the imagination. Sisters, there must be so much we do not know, but—er—ought to. Perhaps we ought to. Perhaps in our newfound mission of regenerating the world we ought to start on the Free Masona. What, for instance, can that faitiation ceremony entail that so shocked my conscientious Mason? He certainly looked hectically alarmed, utterly incredulous, at the action of those reckless "subordinate lodges." It obviously convinced him that England must be in a most deplorable condition, that men over there were losing their minds, that the very foundations of the British Empire must be tottering.

If the innovation is going to have such an awesome effect it seems only gallant of us to halt it forthwith. And besides, for our own sakes, I think we should leave the men one haven to call their own, one sweet, unrevealed mystery to make them interesting. We can, of course, only naven to call their own, one sweet, unrevealed mystery to make them interesting. We can, of course, only hope it is a sweet one. They have assured us time and again that Free Masonry in itself is a noble and lofty creed, that those who live up to its tenets must inevitably be superior citizens. We can't be quite sure what they regard as superior citizenry, of course—and there are some Masons we have known but, never mind, we should, I think, give them the benefit of the doubt.

And, you see, if we were admitted to Free Masonry we might get to know the men too well. Just'so long as they have one private stronghold, one precious sax privilege, there is just a glamour of mystery left—and they need that, sisters, they need that.

When we ourselves start strictly that.

When we ourselves start strictly female organizations with lofty missions, like the Woman's party or the League of Women Voters, etc., it is a declaration of sex war and inimical to the welfare of the state. But then, we don't go in for secrets and initiation ceremonies; in fact, we show a marked preference for publicity, which perhaps isn't quite nice of us. Perhaps if we were more secretive it might make for better citisenry. Taking tremendous and awful vows and wearing insignias, working up to lofty titles and parading in sumptuous uniforms make no end of difference. It is more impressive. We might like it.

CURSE OF HIGH TAXES.

upon to make up deficits which the executive departments have incurred in excess of appropriations by Con-in excess of appropriations by Congress.

But this is a minor matter. On the whole, the Post's editorial is not only sound but timely. It is true, as stated, that "high taxes mean loose methods and extravagant management, incompetent planning and wasteful execution." The man who has other people's money to spend is very likely to seek means of spending rather than saving it. A full treasury is always a temptation, not only to useful axpenditure, but useless expenditure. An effective means, therefore, of securing the earliest possible reduction of taxes is first to compel the executive departments to reduce their expenditures and then cut the revenue so that there will be no excess of funds in the treasury to tempt Federal officials to incur obligations which the public eventually must pay.

RIPPLING RHYMES.

THE ONE TOPIC.

I'd like to talk of books and writers, of literary stars, but all the town is full of blighters who talk of motor cars. I see a bunch of guys conversing and I proceed that way, and in my mind I am rehearsing the things I want to say I'll show that and in my mind I am rehearsing the things I mean to say. I'll show that authors of the present make fiction a disease; they do not make their endings pleasant, their heroes hint of cheese. But men won't listen to my talking, my views they don't desire; they speak of cylinders a-knocking and sparkplugs missing fire. They have a jargon pestilential that jars my soul, by jings; it treats of gears and differential and cantilever springs. They care no hoot if art's receding from her accustomed spot, or if the modern books we're reading show symptoms of dry rot. Connecting rods and tubes and pistons engage their domes of thought; I say wise things, but no one listens, and I am sore distraught. The bookish wise things, but no one listens, and I am sore distraught. The bookish world is badly shaken, such innovations rise, and I would speak of Francis Bacon, Sam Johnson and such guys: but nothing of that nature touches the boys who make their spiels, concerning patent dry disc clutches, sleeve valves and steering wheels. WALT MASON.

THE MOTOR TOUR.

THE MOTOR TOUR.

The inexpensive motor tours of a few days' length, which are becoming every year more common, have a value not always appreciated by those who have not experienced them. Part of the benefit is in the effect on our morale; the compulsory change in what occupies our minds. The mental stimulus is wonderful. Our minds need rest and change more than our physical being. We get it in delightful degree in going to new places; looking on strange acenes; satisfying the craving for adventure; finding relief from the daily routine; storing up pleasing suggestions; bringing back photographs of the tour for refreshing our memory; learning by what ing our memory; learning by what we see is being done in other parts of the world.

Some of the most satisfying ideas have spread from coast to coast through the observations brought back by the tourist. These things count in maintaining the unity of the country. It is the privilege of practically every citizen to share in this privilege. The motor cars of this country have a capacity for carrying more than half the population rying more than half the population and their number is multiplying. The motor tour is their greatest oppor-

In one of the most practical and forceful editorials it has published in many months the Saturday Evening Post recently discussed the very appropriate subject of taxation. The importance of relieving the burden of taxation in general and of Federal taxation in particular was pointed out in a way that will impress the minds of all readers. It is true, as Editor Lorimer says:

"Everything is being defiated except taxes. Everybody is economising except the tax gatherer."

As a rule the tax gatherer is one of the tax spenders and naturally his viewpoint impels him to see the necessity of higher rather than lower taxes. The spender of public money is impressed with the importance of the service for which the money is spent. He magnifes its value to the public and perhaps sincerely believes that the service should be extended rather than curtailed. He is a constant booster of taxes. If there is to be any check on the raising of public revenue and its expenditure the check must come through the activity of private citizens who make their wishes known in a manner that cannot be misunderstood.

The editor of the Saturday Evening Post is hardly correct in his statement that. "Since the beginning of the World War, legislators in almost every branch of government have been running hog-wild, taxing and spending, spending and taxing." It was not the legislative branch of the government that ran "hog-wild, taxing and spending." Records will show that the President and members of his Cabinet during the World War asked for enormous sums of money and for practically unlimited authority on the representation that both were necessary for the winning of the war. With some doubt, Congress granted practically all requests for money or power, choosing to give the administration the benefit of any doubt rather than take the chance of handicapping those who were charged with the management of military operations.

But, as soon as the armistice had been signed and it was clear that the war was over, Congress acted as a restraining influence upon the executives. In the first year after the signing of the armistice Congress cut $1,500,000,000 out of the demands of the executive departments. In the next year they cut out a billion dollars. The pre

strated in a 1921 automobile, defeat

Modern mechanics, as demonstrated in a 1921 automobile, defeated the mental calculations of Charles L. Johnson and Hubert Haenel early yesterday morning, and as a result they were both lodged in the County Jail on suspicion of stealing an automobile, belonging to P. M. Reidy, 607 Grosse Building.

The two, each 19 years old, after being halted at Burbank by Deputy Sheriffs Johnson and Cooper, said a man named Red Reidy had lent them the car they were driving, and that they were to meet him to return it at five minutes past midnight, it was then five minutes to midnight, and twelve miles to go. The officers did some mathematics of their own, and leaving a Sheriff's car, started for Temple street and Broadway, the meeting place mentioned. They arrived there at 12:05 a.m., and no Mr. Reidy appeared. The County Jail was only a block away, so the two young men were taken there. It was then discovered Mr. Reidy's car was stolen and the two youths were confronted with this fact. They are then said to have confessed to previous trouble with the police and admitted stealing the car.

TIRED OF LIFE, MAN ENDS IT WITH GUN.

Despondent because of ill health, Thomas Bartlett, 67 years old, a laborer, shot himself through the brain some time Sunday afternoon. The body was found by the police yesterday. A note left by the suicide stated he was tired of living and asked that all his effects be given to the owners of the house in which he roomed.

ROBINSONS

PAYS GEN. OTIS TRIBUTE.

One thousand veterans and their friends, assembled yesterday in Ward Memorial Hall at the Soldiers Home, heard Capt. W. T. Helms praise the spirit of '61. He said that next to his father he considered Gen. Harrison Gray Otis the greatest and best soldier he ever knew, not excepting William McKinley, who, he reminded his hearers, was a veteran of the Civil War. Gen. Otis, he said, in establishing The Times here, had created a greater newspaper than the New York Times or the London Times.

Capt. Helms said his father had spent eighteen months in Libby prison, and when he asked how many present had been there a score of hands went up. The speaker declared the American victories of the World War were due to heroic sires. He said the American troops

Dislocated Her Shoulder. Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm, Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Liniment advertised for sprains and soreness and she asked him to buy a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved the pain and soreness and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. If you are troubled with rheumatism, give Chamberlain's Liniment a trial. It is excellent.—[Advertisement.

POLITICS.

THE WATCHMAN.

The overwhelming swing to the support of George E. Cryer for Mayor demonstrates the fact that the voters are not being misled by the so-called Snyder platform now being posted on billboards and distributed through the mails. The "platform" tells of Mayor Snyder's stand on various highly unimportant matters, which the administration of the city's business and none of which answers this question the voters desire answered: "What has Mayor Snyder done for the upbuilding of Los Angeles?" He has been Mayor four times. He seeks a fifth term. In his "platform" not one statement is made showing that
